Secrecy Still Reigns.

Another Mysterious Arrest in the Cronin Case,

BUT HIS IDENTITY UNKNOWN.

It is Believed to Be the Party That Drove Cronin From the Conklins to the Carlson Cottage—Burke Remanded Again at Winnipeg—More Evidence Wanted.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Last Thursday night several detectives from the Central station took a prisoner to the Harrison street station and locked him up in a witness cell. The greatest secrecy was observed by the officers, and from their actions it was evident that they had made an important arrest. They refused to say who their prisoner was, or why he was arrested, but it is known that the arrest was made in connection with the Cronin case.

It was also said that the prisoner was none other than the man who drove Cronin from the Conklins' to the Carlson cottage. Efforts to see the prisoner were futile.

Comments of the Herald.

The Herald prints the following:

L. Burlingham, the North Side druggist, who sailed for England Wednesday afternoon to escape the wrath of the Chicago Clan-na-Gael, is liable to turn up shortly as a witness for The Times in the Parnell inquiry. That Burlingham is in possession of a good many valuable facts concerning Irish revolutionary affairs in America is not doubted. He obtained his information through various peculiar sources, and had imparted it to the British government from time to time by either reporting in person or by means of the cable.

He was suspected by Irishmen because he made frequent trips to London and the continent in search of drugs. He said he could buy cheaper on the other side than he could in America. Inquiry proved that he was not telling the truth and then he was pointed out as a man worth watching. After Dr. Cronin's body was found Burlingham began to get uneasy and he practically sacrificed his property to be in a position to get out of the country on the shortest notice. He had had trouble with the doctor once, and the latter's friends did not regard him with a friendly eye.

Burke Again Remanded.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 6. In the Burke case yesterday the whole time was taken up in the examination of the Assistant States Attorney Baker, of Chicago. His evidence was principally that of a legal expert. He also identified Burke as the original of the man in the photograph taken at the unveiling of the Irish Nationalist monument.

Burke was again remanded in the afternoon. The prosecution think they have not strong enough evidence on which to rest their case, and are awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Carlson to complete the story of the crime and Burke's connection therewith. The prosecution practically admit the weakness of this case, and will not take any chances while additional evidence can be procured.

INDIGNANT JOHNSTONIAN.

A Baltimore Firm Secures the Contract for Removing the Debris.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 6.—The contract for the entire work of removing the remainder of the wreck was let yesterday to McLain & Company, of Baltimore. This action of the chief engineer, Col. Douglass, has caused great indignation. Pittsburg and Altoona contractors were officially notified that their contracts with the state would terminate on Saturday. They will suffer heavy loss the commissary department is using to take their supplies off their hands. Gen. Hastings gives no reason for the change.

Miss Clara Barton, of the Red Cross, is indignant at Mrs Francis Jerome's letter, saying Mrs. Jerome does not represent any society or anybody. Gen. Hastings also states that Mrs. Jerome's letter did not present the true state of affairs.

George C. Hamilton, of Warren, has been appointed chief engineer to take charge of the work Monday.

The $150,000 relief fund will be distributed by Monday, except in cases held over for further inquiry.

Sixty-eight of the business houses have been given out, and preparations are being made to open immediately. The coroner will continue his investigation, and his verdict is expected Monday.

Five more bodies were recovered yesterday.

Governor Beaver said yesterday that $200,000 had been expended through him for removal of debris from the streets at Johnstown and in cleaning the streets, and altogether about $1,000,000 have been given toward the relief of the sufferers. The governor's fund has reached about $1,000,000.

PRACTICING FOR THE FIGHT.

Sullivan Preparing to Meet Kilrain Next Monday.

NEW ORLEANS, July 6.—Sullivan now weighs 202 pounds, and severe training has been abandoned, though he will take more exercise than an ordinary man could endure. Yesterday morning he rose at 7 o'clock. At 10 o'clock he went across the street with Muldoon and Cleary to the rooms of the Gymnastic club, and spent hours there in exercise that caused the perspiration to drop from him like rain. No one was admitted to see him work except half a dozen of the friends who accompanied him here and a newspaper representative.

A foot ball filled with flour or meal, weighing about twenty-five pounds, was tossed from Sullivan to Muldon and back again, a distance of twenty-five feet. Sullivan receiving the heavy ball for forty minutes without signs of weakness. Neither Muldoon nor Cleary could stand the exercise long, so they alternated in receiving the ball and tossing it back to Sullivan every ten minutes. Sullivan finished perfectly fresh after his stand against both of them. Those who saw Sullivan hurl that ball with a velocicity that made Muldoon stagger as he received it were reminded of the John L Sullivan of old. After two minutes' rest Sullivan began skipping the rope. He skipped a thousand times without stopping.

Sullivan is in the pink of condition, better than ever before in his life. He measures forty-two inches around the chest and is as deep through from breast to back as he is from side to side. There does not appear to be an ounce of superfluous flesh on him. His friends are jubilant over his condition and predict an easy victory. Joe Coburn says there is no doubt whatever that Sullivan will win, that he has seen him in all of his fights but never in as perfect condition as now. The opinion is quite general here among the New York Sullivan party that if Kilrain will stand up and fight the battle will not last over five rounds. The betting is ten to seven on Sullivan.

Kilrain is expected to-day. The arrival of Sullivan and the enthusiasm of his friends here does not dampen the ardor of Kilrain's friends, whose numbers seem to increase. While the central portions of the city side with Sullivan the upper sections are largely in favor of Kilrain. At the Southern Athletic Club most of members seem confident that Kilrain will win. Other members of the Club, in support of their opinion, said that men like Billy Maddon, Arthur Chambers and Dominick McCaffery, all of whom know both men well would not be found on the side of Kilrain if they didn't know what they were doing. According to reports Sullivan has not near the wind that Kilrain has, and he is entirely too heavy about the hips. Professor Dennis Butler is confident that Kilrain will win.

The Kilrain party will be met by a party of friends and escorted to their headquarters at the Southern club. The rooms which have been set apart for Kilrain are in a building adjoining the club, so that he and his seconds will be able to enjoy greater seclusion than do Sullivan and his trainers, as they will not have to go into the street to go to and from the gymnasium. Kilrain will remain in his quarters till he leaves for the battleground on Monday.

No Fighting in Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., July 6.—Governor Lowrey has sent the following telegram to all sheriffs on the southern border of the state where it is possible for the Sullivan-Kilrain fight to occur:

"Do not allow the prize fight to take place in your county, take steps to be at the state line, if necessary on both the northeastern, and Louisville and Nashville roads. Send a reliable man to New Orleans to telegraph you on what road and what moment the excursion starts. If your force is distant from telegraph office, have relays to give you the information. If you wish, will have armed troops at easy distance from you to aid you in preserving the peace and arresting the parties. If the fight takes place on Mississippi soil I will pay $1,000 for the arrest and delivery of Sullivan and Kilrain to the sheriff of the county of its occurrence. The payment of this reward applies to officers as well as to private citizens."

Governor Lowrey declares his determination not to allow the fight to come off in Mississippi no matter what the expense or effort.

Sherman's Son a Priest.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 6.—Thomas Ewing Sherman, the oldest son of Gen. W. T. Sherman, was raised to the order of sub-deacon yesterday by Archbishop Ryan. To-day he will have the order of deacon conferred upon him, and on Sunday, that of priest. This is the culmination of eleven years' hard work and study in the Society of Jesus. The ceremony was performed in the archbishop's private chapel, and to it was admitted only some members of the young man's family and some of the clergy.

A Sheriff and His Deputy Shot

KIRKVILLE, Mo., July 6.—During the celebration here Thursday the Miles brothers, Bill and Jim, shot and killed O. E. Bronson, the sheriff of Taney county, and Ed. Frink, his deputy. The Miles boys are under indictment for the murder of the Bald Knobber chief, Capt. Nat. Kinney, at Forsyth last August. The brothers were heavily armed and upon being ordered to disarm they drew their weapons and opened fire killing the two officers.

Probably by a Highbinder.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 6.—Lung Sing, a Chinaman, who came here from Baltimore about two weeks ago, was found murdered in his laundry, corner of Oak and Swan streets. He had been shot through the head. The case is a mysterious one and the murderer has not yet been found.

Expedition to Africa.

Arrangements Being Made By Secretary Tracy.

FOR SCIENTIFIC PURPOSES.

Observations to Be Made of the Eclipse of Sun next December—Treasury Statement for the Past Month—Other Dispatches from the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The committee appointed by the secretary of the navy to arrange for the scientific expedition to Africa next fall to observe the eclipse of the sun, December 21 next, held a meeting at the navy department recently. The conference consisted of Commodore John G. Walker, chief of the bureau of navigation; Capt. R. L. Phythian, superintendent of the naval observatory; Professor Hall, of the naval observatory, and Professor Simon Newcomb, superintendent of the nautical almanac office.

It was decided to divide the expedition into two parties, one under Professor Todd, of Amherst college, and the other under Professor Joseph Russell, of this city, both to leave this country about October 1 in a man-of-war. Both will go first to St. Paul de Loando, on the west coast of Africa, and will then separate, going into two different camps.

The idea at the navy department is that the United States steamship Baltimore will be selected for the trip. She will be tried within a month, and will undoubtedly be ready for sea by October. In case of an accidental delay the Richmond will probably be selected. The Baltimore will not have her guns on board for at least a year, but that fact need not bar her from the scientific expedition.

New Route for Foreign Mail.

WASHINGTON, July 6. The Guatemala office has advised the postoffice department that by reason of the difficulty of transporting mails of large bulk through the interior of Guatemala it has become necessary to request that for the future the mails dispatched by steamers sailing from New Orleans to Livingston shall be composed solely of letters and registered articles; and that all packages of printed matter and samples shall be included in mails dispatched by steamers sailing from New York for Aspinwall. Orders to this effect have been issued by the postmaster general.

On a Two Weeks' Visit.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Secretary Windom and Assistant Secretary Tichenor had a conference yesterday on important questions pending before the treasury department, the result of which is that Col. Tichenor left Washington in the afternoon for a visit to New York, Boston and Portland. He will spend a few days in each of the cities named for consultation with the customs officers, and may possibly extend his visit to other cities. He will probably be gone about two weeks.

Treasury Statement.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The treasury department monthly statement of changes in the circulation shows a net decrease of $17,924,701 during the past month of June. There was a decrease of $12,251,903 in gold certificates; $3,599,298 in National bank notes; $1,810,698 in United States notes; $907,376 in gold coin; and $536,350 in standard silver dollars, and an increase of $1,564,637 in silver certificates.

Not Believed in Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—State department officials say that no official advices whatever have been received at the department, respecting the reported rupture between Costa Rica and Nicaragua likely to grow out of concessions to the Nicaragua Canal company. The report is generally discredited by state department people.

Returned to Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 6. Secretary Noble has returned to Washington from Woodstock, and Postmaster General Wanamaker from Philadelphia. Both were at their desks in the department to-day. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Batcheller has also returned to Washington from his home in New York.

Walking for a Bride.

PORTSMOUTH, O., July 6.—A curious walking match took place Thursday morning between H. Brochmeyer, a notion merchant, formerly of Cincinnati, and Charley Bhir, a court house clerk. It was to decide which should win a fair young lady, to which both gentlemen have been paying their attentions. They walked five miles, Bloohmeyer winning by fifty feet.

UNDER THE CARS.

A Gentleman, His Mother-in-Law, Child and Nurse Ground to Pieces.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 6.—At Little Silver Crossing, three miles north of Long Branch, yesterday afternoon, a carriage containing the mother of Joseph Ward, collar and shirt manufacturer, of New York, Mr. Keating, Mr. Ward's brother-in-law, a New York hat manufacturer; Elsie Keating, a child, and her nurse, was struck by the 5:30 express train from New York, on the Central railroad of New Jersey, and smashed to pieces.

Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Keating and the nurse-girl were dreadfully mangled beneath the wheels of the locomotive, and their bodies carried over one hundred feet. The child, Elsie, was also badly mangled. Her chest was crushed, but she lived an hour and a half. Pieces of the victims' bodies were scattered along the track for a considerable distance. The horse was killed and dismembered.

Several persons who witnessed the accident say Mr. Keating waited until a north-bound train passed. He evidently did not see the south-bound express, and drove upon the track as it came thundering along. The remains were gathered up.

UNION TICKET IN THE FIELD.

The Labor Party in Ohio Nominates a State Ticket.

LIMA, O., July 6.—The State Union Labor convention, which met here Thursday, was presided over by John Seitz, with E. A. Weier, of Cincinnati, as secretary. A platform was adopted similar to that of last year. Home rule for Cincinnati was demanded and thanks returned to Labor Statistician Fassett. The most important resolution passed was that changing the name of the Union Labor party to the National party.

The following ticket was nominated. For governor, J. H. Rhodes, of Sandusky county; for lieutenant governor, K. L. Rice, of Cuyahoga county; judge of Supreme court, Granbison N. Tuttle, of Lake county; auditor of state, Michael Krumm of Franklin county; secretary of state, D. D. Marvin, of Trumbull county; attorney general, William Baker, of Licking county; member of state board of public works, Oswald Deitz, of Cincinnati.

Chas. Jenkins, of Mahoning county, was recommended as the choice of the convention for United States senator.

A ratification meeting was held at night in the Public square with Deitz, Rice and Davis as speakers.

THE FIGHTING ALLSTONS.

Two Die with Their Boots on; One Commits Suicide, and Another Now in Jail.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 6.—"The Alstons, sir, die with their boots on." That was the constant boast of the late Col. Bob Alston, famous throughout Georgia as an editor and politician. His grandfather and his father had died that way, and one day after he had made that boast he was shot to death.

Not long ago this one of his boys committed suicide in Washington, D. C. Yesterday another son was jailed at Lithonia, Ga., with a charge of murder opposite his name. A young Scotchman named Wilson, was killed in a Fourth of July brawl there, and Alston is charged with the crime. The prominence of Alston and his family makes the case of particular interest.

Weekly Trade Review

What Dun & Company Has to Say this Week.

THE PROSPECTS IMPROVING.

Holiday Week Was Not Attended With the Usual Dullness—An Early Fall Trade Expected—Large Transactions During the Month of June—Failures of the Week.

NEW YORK, July 6.—R. G. Dun's weekly review of trade says: Though there has been the dullness usual in a holiday week, business has been fairly maintained in volume, and is gradually improving in prospects. Full trade is expected to commence earlier than usual, and the local indications in all parts of the country lead dealers to anticipate an active season.

June has been a month of exceptionally large transactions, and while speculation has so swelled bank exchanges at New York that they exceeded last year's by 38 per cent., and at Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago so that they showed a gain of 15.7 per cent., the increase at all other clearing houses also averaged 14.5 per cent. Prices of commodities, in spite of the rise in some speculative markets, have on the whole fallen during the month about 2 per cent. and are now hardly 1½ per cent. above the lowest average ever recorded. But there are signs of substantial improvement in the most important branches of industry, which impress observers with confidence in the future. The monetary situation, though threatened by large exports of specie, remains as yet undisturbed.

Nevertheless the stock market, by many considered an indicator of the future, has been sinking. The average of prices has now declined $3.21 per share since June 12 and while the fear of monetary pressure hereafter has been a factor of some importance, it is clear that the wars of western, and to some extent of eastern railroads, have disheartened many investors and caused much selling. It is felt, too, that the rise stimulated by sudden advances in trust stocks was not of a substantial character. But there has been much confidence that the enormous half yearly disbursements by government and corporations would cause a new demand and advance in the better securities, and while the movement thus far in July has not answered expectations, holders are still hopeful.

Reports from interior points are generally favorable, but as to the volume of business for the season, and as to the prevailing estimate of prospects. Collections are nowhere seriously disturbing, and the money markets are everywhere fully supplied, though with light present demand at most cities. The half yearly returns of failures shows a relatively larger increase in New England than in any other section, about 28 per cent., and next in the Trans-Mississippi region this side the Rocky mountains, about 20 per cent. In the middle states the increase has been but 4½ per cent., thence to the Mississippi about 5 per cent., and at the south about 3½ per cent. Against a general increase of 8 per cent in numbers, there is a decrease of 3½ per cent in aggregate liabilities. Losses incident to speculation have been heavy, but as to number of failures, probably the disappointing trade of the last open winter was the most important cause.

The markets have not changed greatly during this broken week. Wheat is about three-quarters of a cent higher, owing to accounts of injury from prolonged drought and heat in Dakota and Minnesota, where heavy rains have just improved the outlook considerably. Other crop prospects continue favorable, but in some quarters, too much rain has injured corn, and the price is half a cent higher. Pork products are weaker, and dairy products are coming forward in immense quantity, so that prices are depressed. Leather does not change, but the revised quotations of wool for the 1st of July show an average advance of about one cent per pound, and it is becoming a serious question whether the hopes of improvement in the manufacture may not be defeated by an advance in the material which may keep many of the mills idle. At present many are working short time, and the buying seems only sufficient to meet immediate needs.

The price of cotton has advanced 3-16, in part because of scanty supply of desirable grades, and the later returns induce general modification of estimates as to last year's crop. The iron market remains strong in tone, but no further advance in prices has been realized. Southern iron is still offered in large quantity at $16.50 for No. 1, and the demand for manufactured iron is active. Sales of about 10,000 tons steel rails appear to have been on a basis of $8 at eastern mills.

The monetary prospect is clouded by the exports of $17,507,640 gold and $1,153,164 silver from New York alone since June 1. In consequence, the circulation of all kinds has been reduced $17,000,000 in June, and though the aggregate is even now $8,000,000 larger than a year ago, it is felt that a continuous outgo in July would be apt to cause pressure in September. The New York banks reported last week a surplus of only $7,500,000, and the actual surplus probably was not over $6,000,000, which is not a large preparation for an active fall demand.

The volume of foreign trade has been large, with exports for five weeks exceeding last year's by 17 per cent. at New York, while the imports show an increase of 1 per cent., but the excess of imports last year was very heavy. Unless grain exports are hastened by the cut in eastbound rail rates, or foreign holders cease to realize on securities, the outgo of gold may continue. Thus far the treasury disbursements for the week have exceeded receipts by only $300,000, but will be much larger for the week to come.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number for the United States 185, and for Canada 17, or a total of 202, as compared with a total of 215 last week, and 220 the week previous to the last. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 214, made up of 192 in the United States, and twenty-two in the dominion of Canada.

TEN BLOCKS BURNED.

Business Portion of Ellensburg, Washington Territory, Wiped Out.

ELLENSBURG, W. T., July 6. Ten blocks of the best portion of this city are in ashes. Nearly one hundred families are homeless, and what was yesterday a thriving and imposing business center is now a mass of ashes and burning cinders. Owing to the excitement and confusion that prevailed it is impossible to ascertain how the fire originated, but it is presumed that it was the result of the celebration of the National holiday, as it was started soon after the inauguration of the display of fireworks Thursday evening.

The flames started on the north side of the city about 10 o'clock in the evening, and with a very strong wind blowing from the northeast. The fire department, which was promptly called out, could do nothing to check the rapid advance of the conflagration, which within an hour spread to the business center. Help was telegraphed from the neighboring towns, but long before it could reach the scene the flames had wiped out the heart of the city, and had commenced to spread among the residences of the south side. It was not until the main portion of the food for the fire had been consumed that there were any signs of abatement and it was nearly morning before the firemen secured any result from their tireless efforts.

The cessation of the winds had a tendency to aid the firemen in checking the progress of the fire, and at this hour it is thought that the flames are under control, or that they will be confined to the buildings now burning. While it is impossible to form a close idea of the amount of loss, it is estimated that the sum will run up to many hundreds of thousands of dollars. All of the leading hotels, the handsome Nash opera house block, the city hall, the board of trade building, Snipe & Co.'s bank, in fact all the business blocks on Pine and Pearl and Third, Fourth and Fifth streets are consumed, excepting only the First National Bank Building, Bloomer & O'Connor's dry goods house, H. Gotsein's boot and shoe store, one saloon and one general store.

Only these latter concerns remain standing to mark the spot where flourished a beautiful and prosperous business center. The number of residences destroyed cannot now be estimated, but it is known that over one hundred families are homeless, penniless and with nothing left save the few scant clothes with which they escaped in flying from the advancing flames. Help has been asked and is badly needed, not only in suppressing the fire, but in caring for the homeless victims of the conflagration.

The district burned embraced Main street, from Fifth to First; Fourth street, from Main to Pine; Third, from Water to Sprague; Pearl, from Fifth to Second, covering an area of ten blocks in the business heart of the city. The only brick buildings left are Lynch's block and the Ellensburg National bank. Two hundred houses were totally destroyed. The loss as now estimated is about $2,000,000, three-quarters of a million in buildings and a million and a quarter in goods.

Among the principal buildings destroyed are the Stone bank, Snipes & Company, the Ashler hotel, the Oriental hotel, the Masonic temple, the Odd Fellows' hall, the Geddes block, the Fish block, the postoffice, The Localizer printing office, the Dexter stable and others. The only stores left are four.

There is not a restaurant, hotel or boarding house left, and there are about 150 people destitute. Mayor Abrams has called a meeting of citizens to take action for relief.

While the loss is terrible the citizens maintain a cheerful disposition and are determined to build more substantially than ever.

Dynamiting a Newspaper Office.

BEAVERDALE, Pa., July 6. Last night the office of The Evening Star, in the Producers' exchange, was visited by the dynamiters and a dynamite cartridge with a fuse and cap attached, placed on the floor inside of the door. The person or persons who left it there may have effected an entrance by picking a lock, but it is probable that the explosion was thrown over the door through the open transom. The bomb was discovered by City Editor Wagner at 12 o'clock. He immediately notified Chief of Police McCrea, who at once repaired to The Star office and took charge of the dynamite. The explosive was examined by experts, who pronounced it of sufficient strength to produce a most disastrous effect.

CATHOLIC TOTAL ABSTINENCE UNION.

Convention and Reunion to be Held in this City, July 8th and 9th.

The Catholic Total Abstinence Union of Ohio will hold their sixteenth annual convention and reunion in this city on July 8th and 9th, and it promises to be one of the most interesting events in the history of the Union. 300 delegates have informed the committee on arrangements that they will be in attendance, representing three thousand members belonging to the Union in the State. The order of exercises will be as follows: Delegates will be received on their arrival on the morning of the 8th by committees appointed for that purpose and formed into line on Main street in front of the Kerr Hotel, from thence they will march to the church about nine o'clock, where high mass will be given in their honor. After church services they will assemble again and form into ranks with band of music and carriages containing Mayor and prominent gentlemen of the city who have signified their intention of welcoming the delegates to the thriving little city of Marion, at their head, marching to the Music Hall where the convention convenes and after the welcoming speeches are over the regular business of the convention will be transacted during the day. On the 9th the Marion members of the Union propose giving a picnic on the Fair grounds for the entertainment of their fellow members from abroad and a grand banquet in the evening will close the exercises.

Morrow County Waterfall.

[Galion Inquirer.]

Squire A. Underwood was seen by an Inquirer reporter last Monday, and reported a heavy water fall which he witnessed at the Long farm, south of Bloominggrove, last Sunday. The rain came up unexpectedly and lasted about twenty minutes, but within that time the ravines were filled like an immense sheet of water. Rain was followed by hail, and this is probably the cause of the sudden cool temperature in this city. The water swept away fences, logs and outhouses, and several bridges are said to have been seriously damaged.

Mansfield Shield, 1st: A lady from this city, who spent Sunday with relatives at Johnsville, Morrow county, tells of a terrible waterspout that burst on the farm of Samuel Brickley about two miles from that place last evening. The water deepened in the valley with terrible rapidity and rushed madly into the little river swelling it to many times its usual proportions. Bridges and fences were washed away and a great amount of damage was done. Many persons who were in the vicinity of the water spout had narrow escapes, among whom were the children of Mr. Brickley, who were driving the cattle home. Ninety head of sheep belonging to Mr. Brickley were washed away and many of the farmers in that neighborhood suffered equally.

A Basket Meeting.

A basket meeting will be held in Jacob Finchbaugh's grove, a half mile west of Owen Station, on the Prospect pike, July 14th, 1889, under the auspices of Quinn Chapel, A. M. E. church, Marion, O.

The program for the day will be as follows:

Sunday 9 to 10 a. m., prayer meeting; from 10:30 to 11 a. m., song service, immediately after which the morning sermon will be preached by Rev. E. Jackson. From 12 m. to 1 p. m., dinner; 1:30 to 2:30 p. m., Sunday school; 3 to 4:30 p. m., preaching by Rev. Geo. Davis; 7 to 7:30 p. m., praise meeting, immediately after which the evening sermon will be preached by Geo. H. Davis.

In view of the fact that God hath said, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," the day will not be desecrated by charging for admittance into the grove, or buying or selling on the ground. All are cordially invited to attend. Good order must be observed.

GEO. H. DAVIS, Pastor.

Waldo.

The Sons of Veterans will hold a festival in the park on Saturday evening, July 13th, consisting of ice cream, lemonade, peanuts, etc. All neighboring camps and the people in general are invited to attend.

A Mr. Pennell, of Marion, was down one day last week looking after our schools, he having applied for the winter school.

Nearly all our district schools have hired teachers for the winter terms. W. C. Selanders has No. 1, H. C. Anderson No. 2, Wesley Miller (probably) No. 4, Charles Taylor No. 5 and H. E. Corbin will teach the winter school in the Hocker district, Prospect township, and Ollie Selanders will teach a fall term in No. 6 and Myrtle Justice a fall term in No. 2, Pleasant township. Waldo surely beats the world for school teachers, and they are all hustlers, too.

David Conoklin, of Marion, is now working at Daniel Stockman's.

Isaac Jones has gone to Marion to work in the Malleable Iron works.

A few of our farmers have cut some wheat at this date.

Three members of the Marion walking club passed through here Sunday morning, footing it to Prospect.

Dennis Drake has gone to Chicago, where he will engage in business.

Giving Fair Warning.

An elder sister had her little brother out for a walk the other day, and he proved somewhat unruly. She had evidently seen him before, for she gave him some little leeway when she laid down her commands.

"Neddie," she cried, "I shan't tell you more than three times more to stop hollering so!" —Boston Commonwealth.

The Last Obstacle.

She—O George, I think ma is too mean for anything. She said last night if I ever married she would give the piano to my little sister.

He—Did she? By the way, dear, I'm ready to marry you at any time now. The last obstacle has been removed.—Omaha World.

A Question of Time.

Mr. Jones (to Mrs. Jones)—There is only one fault about that suit you bought for Johnny last week. He's already too big for it.

Mrs. Jones—That is a fault he will soon outgrow, my dear.—Detroit Tribune.

The Rest of Us Are More Fortunate.

"Is it not wonderful," said Mrs. Hardpounder, as she reluctantly left the remains of the piano, "that at the time he composed that wonderful symphony, Beethoven was stone deaf?" Chorus, in F minor—"Lucky man!"—Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

He Was a Slayer.

Miss Widgery—Come, Mr. Tollivant; you're delaying the game awfully.

Mr. Tollivant—Just a moment. (To himself.) I've paws'tively got to change my fingrover maker. This one don't fit worth a guinea.—Judge.

RECLAIMED.

We once were factious, fierce, and wild,
To peaceful arts unreconciled;
Our blankets smeared with grease and stains
From buffalo meat and settlers' veins,
Through summer's dust and heat content,
From moon to moon unwashed we went;
But IVORY SOAP came like a ray
Of light across our darkened way.

And now we're civil, kind and good,
And keep the laws as people should.
We wear our linen, lawn and lace,
As well as folks with paler face.
And now I take, where'er we go,
This cake of IVORY SOAP to show
What civilized my squaw and me
And made us clean and fair to see.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory'"; they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

LONG LIFE

There is nothing in the world more generally desired than long life, yet the majority of people put off caring for their health—not because they are really careless, but because we live our lives at such a pace we have not time to give the subject sufficient thought until we receive a reminder in the shape of a severe illness.

Then, too, we are constantly bewildered by the various schools of medicine, and the physicians who represent them, and often blunder in our choice of a doctor.

If people only knew that the very best health-keeper, life-preserver, and disease-preventer that has yet been discovered, is summered down into a concentrated and very palatable form in the shape of New Style Pleasant Taste Vinegar Bitters, they would not hesitate a moment to try it.

But they do not know. How can they know, when so many nostrums worthless, but most vely injurious drugs are constantly flooding the market under various names guises, that the New Style Vinegar Bitters is as bad as any of them?

They do not know, of course, unless they have the courage to try the New Style. It straightens out a tangled-up system in a very short while, and those who buy it once buy it always.

Why don't you try it, reader? It is sent out by a responsible house, and is exactly as represented. It costs but a dollar for a very large bottle. Try it once and you will never be so glad of anything in your life. Your druggist may not have it, but he will order it for you. Be sure it says New Style Pleasant Taste on carton and bottle before you take it. Try it, and you will feel happier than if you had found a gold mine, for it really is a mine of health.

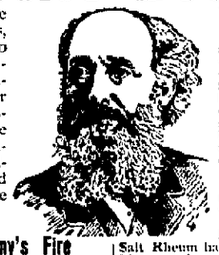
A POSITIVE CURE

FOR SKIN DISEASES



OF diseases of the skin there are some 12 or 15 classes, in each class from two to four varieties. These are modified according to the particular condition of the blood, for disease of the skin means disease of the blood. These are either the result of stomach, liver or kidney difficulties, and for a cure depend upon a healthy action of these organs.

Erysipelas, or St. Anthony's Fire

Is the result of an impure condition of the blood, and for a cure depends, primarily, upon the condition of the stomach, liver and kidneys, and, secondarily upon the condition of the blood as manufactured by these organs.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

HOW POCKET PICKING HAS BEEN PRACTICALLY ABOLISHED.

That Is on One Race Track Near The Metropolis—One of Bob Pinkerton's Jobs—Other Gossip of Interest from the Big City.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, July 1.—Thirty thousand people swarming from cars and boats and carriages; thirty thousand people pushing, scrambling, squeezing through narrow turnstiles and showing thirty thousand circular badges dangling from buttonholes and surrendering to keen eyed gatekeepers thirty thousand admission tickets; thirty thousand people solidly packed on and in front of a mammoth grand stand, pushing into the paddock and pulling and elbowing and cursing in the betting ring for the privilege of losing many times thirty thousand dollars; thirty thousand people scampering wildly home again, hanging perilously on the edges of car platforms and boat railings, and yet not one loss by pocket picking reported and not one thief given into the custody of the police authorities. That, in part, is the marvelous story of more than one big race day on the grounds of the Coney Island Jockey club. No more diversified gathering of people can be imagined than that which gathers on a race track when a great equine struggle is about to take place. The society woman and the queen of the half world cheer the winner from adjoining four in hand coaches, and the Adonis of the four hundred is shoved in the betting ring by the equally well dressed black leg who flaunts a hundred dollar note under the bookmaker's nose. All conditions of people are in closest contact. It would appear as though the occasion presented a rare harvest for industrious and dexterous pickpockets, nor does the malodorous reputations of the police authorities of that ocean edged end of the earth tend to allay the alarm with which boodle blessed burgers may be possessed. Yet it is a singular fact that pocket picking is an unheard of crime on the great race track, and even on the days of the great races no arrests are recorded within the club's inclosure. Of course this state of affairs does not arise from the turf having any peculiar moral atmosphere of its own. The cause from which this effect arises is a contract between the Coney Island Jockey club and Bob Pinkerton, by the terms of which the famous detective guarantees, in return for a certain sum of money, to keep all thieves away from the race track.

The manner in which this seemingly unaccomplishable bargain is kept is peculiar, although not generally known. The Pinkerton detective service is a wide reaching machine. In its employ are bartenders, cigar dealers, clerks and men about town who are not averse to the secret addition of $12 per week to their other source of income. These are utilized in various ways without their identity ever being revealed. The information which they obtain concerning any matter which is being investigated is generally more openly worked up and amplified by the regular Pinkerton "operatives," whose faces are as well known to the big thieves as those of the detectives in the employ of the city. Thus it is that one's familiar friend may be in the Pinkerton service and the fact never be suspected.

When Robert Pinkerton undertakes a contract to keep "clean" (that is the police expression) a race track, or a fair ground, or a ballroom, or a public entertainment of any kind, or a large store, he first directs his operatives (he never calls them detectives) to notify of the fact all the crooked men with whom they come in contact. "Bob wants me to tell you that we have taken charge of the Coney Island track," is a message rich with meaning to one who does not walk in straight paths. The big thieves know that the Pinkertons never compromise a case, never try to push backward a man who is honestly endeavoring to reform, and never have had a suspicion of purchase cast upon them. Experience has taught them the full significance of a message similar to the above, and it is truly edifying to hear one of them, as I did, meekly and cheerily reply, "All right; tell Bob I'll notify any of the boys I come across."

Naturally many thieves do not receive the notification, some conclude to disregard it, and there are many fresh recruits in the army of crime whose faces have not yet become known. To the care of these are all subsequent movements directed. The sale of badges and tickets is placed solely in Pinkerton's hands. The men who sell you the admission pasteboards are Pinkerton operatives, and so are the men who take them from you at the turnstile, and who quickly eye you; and on grand stand, in paddock and betting ring are Pinkerton operatives, many of them regulars, more of the secretly employed kind, and a few of them women. The second class, who are not supposed to know the professional criminals, keep watch for new and young additions to the ranks. A very little practice schools them in the movements of pickpockets. The moment one of these youngsters is detected in a suspicious act he is touched upon one shoulder, escorted to the gate, his face impressed upon the memories of the keepers there, and then he is kicked into the outer world and warned against again endeavoring to gain admission.

Meanwhile, at the gate the face of every comer is being scanned. When a professional thief is recognized a warning finger is lifted and he is greeted with: "It won't do, old man. We have charge here, and if you don't stay away Bob will get mad." That suffices. There may be a scowl or a mumbled curse, but there is no scene, and those nearest do not know that a protecting arm has been thrown up to keep a criminal outcast from the company of his fellow men. In the hurry and push, however, it is natural that many faces which adorn the rogues' gallery should escape the lynx eyes at the gate, and then, too, the operatives stationed there may be unfamiliar with lineaments which are fixed on the minds of some of their brethren within the inclosure. Those who thus gain admission are, however, soon observed. Then follows a touch on the shoulder, a whispered "They want to see you down at the gate," a muttered "I didn't know you folks had charge here," an incredulous smile, and in a few moments the offender is beyond hearing of the huzzahs of the grand stand.

Once in awhile a vigorous protester is found who says: "What's de matter with youse fellows? Does yer want me to git off de earth? I ain't doin' nuthin' here, and Ise going to stay to play de races, see?" A pleasant intimation that the young bandit—old birds never act that way—is acting foolishly, proving unavailing, the operative never leaves the side of his now surly companion. He accompanies him everywhere. An arrest might lead to a rough and tumble scrimmage—for the thief has as yet committed no overt act—and where 30,000 people are gathered that sort of scene might mean broken bones and fainting women. The Pinkerton machine moves noiselessly. But when the races are over the recalcitrant is quietly seized and placed under arrest, and then he is not locked up nor handed over to a policeman, but he is so soundly and thoroughly whipped that he loses all desire to ever come to the races again.

I once saw a striking example of this in the amphitheatre at Manhattan Beach, where nightly displays of fireworks are given. This place is also under Pinkerton's care. It was after the races, and the audience was just beginning to arrive, when I saw Bob Pinkerton and a very small operative—whose special daytime duty is to keep "clean" the largest dry goods store in Brooklyn—enter the inclosure. Seated by me was a burly man with two flashily dressed women. As he saw the famous detective he ducked his head, but he was too late to escape observation. With a sneer Pinkerton pointed at him and said aloud to his companion: "See that big loafer up there." The ruffian's face became white as he fairly whined: "Bob, I didn't know you had this place; 'pon honor I didn't."

"You lie!" was the sententious response, and then, turning to his small companion, he said: "Go up and pull that big fellow out." And the little man did so promptly and gracefully, and then, while the people about, who had become aware of the state of affairs, cheered and applauded, the little fellow kicked and cuffed the burly thief.

Now it is not so difficult to understand why there was no pocket picking on Suburban day.

A letter awaiting at the St. James hotel the return of Actor William T. Florence from the salmon leaping waters of the Restigouche river is covered with the blurred, circular stamps of many postoffices and in its lower left hand corner carries the announcement, "From Henry M. Stanley." The friendship existing between the explorer and the comedian was cemented under rather amusing circumstances. I heard them narrated by Florence a few days before he started with Johnny Hecksher to do battle with the piscatorial monarchs of the Canada's rapids. "Bardwell Slote's" portrayer was in Paris when news was received there that Stanley had returned from Africa, where he had discovered Livingstone, that he had landed at Marseilles and that he would reach the French capital the following day. Immediately the American colony was aglow with patriotic enthusiasm, and, true to the American instinct, it was at once determined that a dinner should be given in Stanley's honor. As it was known that he was in haste to reach London it was necessary to have the banquet on the night of his arrival in Paris. A telegraphic message apprising Stanley of the contemplated courtesy was sent to Marseilles. The details of the dinner were placed in Florence's care for arrangement. The Hotel Chatham was selected as the scene of festivities. Its dining room has a fully windowed side, which forms one boundary of an open court yard. The demand for tickets exceeded the capacity of this apartment and many would be subscribers had to be turned away unsatisfied. Two hours before the time set for the beginning of the banquet Florence, in pursuance of his duties, was arranging the plate cards in place; that most delicate task on which the success or failure of a dinner so largely depends. While engaged in this he became conscious of the fact that a man was peering at him through one of the windows looking on to the court yard. In a few moments the stranger, without asking permission, entered the room and nonchalantly cried out: "Hello, Billy; what are you doing here?"

Florence felt satisfied that he was being accosted by some persistent fellow countryman who was determined to have a seat at the table, consequently he did not even look up, but as he continued his work he mumbled: "I am very busy; you must not trouble me now. Every seat at the table is taken, and I'm trying to arrange the seating of more people than the room can accommodate."

"Don't remember me, Billy, do you?" persisted the stranger, laughingly. "I met you out in Cincinnati a great many years ago."

The actor looked up quickly, and recognizing no familiar lineaments said somewhat impatiently, "I dare say. Glad to see you again. Meet so many people can't remember them all, yorknow. But really, now, you must go away, like a good fellow, and not bother me, else I will never get these people seated."

"But what's going on? What is all this fuss about?" persisted the stranger good naturedly.

"Great heavens! man, don't you know?" answered Florence excitedly. "We are to give Stanley a dinner. The great Stanley, the great explorer, the discoverer of Livingstone. I would like to have you present, but it is impossible, as every seat is taken."

With an amused smile the stranger quietly said: "Why, Billy, I am Stanley. Met you out in Cincinnati when I was a newspaper reporter."

"W-h-a-a-a-t!" ejaculated the comedian, as the plate cards dropped from his nerveless grasp.

"Yes," answered the other laughingly. "See! here are letters from Livingstone with which I must hasten to London," and he drew from an inner pocket of his coat a heavily sealed package.

"My dear sir," exclaimed the now deeply agitated actor, "you must get away from here at once. The guests will begin arriving in a few minutes and you are not dressed to receive them. Didn't you receive our telegram?"

"I got no telegram," replied the explorer, "but never mind that; come out here and take a look at my young nigger. I brought him from Africa, and he is one of the funniest looking creatures you ever saw."

"But, my dear sir," said Florence anxiously, "there's no time to look at niggers now. You must hurry away from here and get ready to receive the distinguished guests."

"Oh, that's all right, Billy," persisted Stanley. "Come and take just one look at this fellow."

There was no escape for the perturbed manager of the banquet. He walked into the court yard, and there was a sight to make a brass image crack its sides. From the heart of the dark continent the explorer had brought a half grown African. In Marseilles he had attired him in the conventional garb of civilization. While waiting for his protector in the hotel court yard his dress had suddenly become irksome to the little savage, and when the two men gazed upon him he was standing proudly erect, as free from covering as when he first entered the world and with his newly bought clothing carefully carried on one arm. That funny occurrence was the beginning of a warm friendship between actor and explorer.

The title of the series is "Die Classiker der exacten Wissenschaften."—Science.

Mrs. Harriet Prescott Spofford is an enthusiastic advocate of daily exercise for girls. She does not care so much about its nature so long as it is taken. She believes that it is as much the duty of parents to insist upon a certain amount of exercise for their girls as it is for them to insist upon proper diet and clothing.

The Arizona Kicker.

THE LAST STRAW.—For the last six months Maj. Davis, of this burgh, has lost no opportunity of abusing us and boasting of what he would do if we did not step softly. The reason for this conduct lies in the fact that The Kicker not only called him a horse thief, but proved him a bigamist besides. Last Saturday the major, who has no more right to that title than a mule has to that of "professor," borrowed a shot gun and gave out that he had camped on our trail and meant to riddle our system with buckshot on sight. Word was brought to us, and although we were very busy at the time superintending our combined weekly newspaper, harness shop, grocery, bazar and gun store (all under one roof, and the largest retail establishment in Arizona), we laid aside our work and went over to Snyder's saloon in search of the major. We found him, and we gave him such a whipping as no man in this town ever got before. He lies a broken and stranded wreck on the shores of time, so to speak, and the doctor says it will be six weeks before he will find any more trails or do any more camping.

SLIPPED A COG.—In company with the elite of this neighborhood we were invited to the adobe of Judge Graham last Thursday evening to witness the marriage of County Clerk Dan Scott to the beautiful Arabella Johnson, only daughter of the aristocratic Widow Johnson, of Bay Horse Hights. The widow had made a spread worthy of the days of Cleopatra, and Dan had on a new suit sent by express from Omaha for the occasion. Everything passed off pleasantly until 8 o'clock, at which hour the bride was discovered to be missing, and investigation soon brought out the fact that she had gone dead back on Dan and skipped the tra-la, whatever that is, with a bold cowboy named French Jim. She left a message to the effect that she could never, never love a man with a cataract in his left eye, and that meant Dan. There was a feast, but no wedding, and Daniel will have to try again.

EXPLANATORY.—As several versions of the incident that occurred in our office Saturday night are flying around town and have probably been telegraphed all over the world, we deem it but right to give the particulars as they occurred:

We were seated in the editorial chair, writing a leader on the European situation, when a rough character known around town as "Mike the Slayer" called in. As we had never had a word with the man, we suspected no evil. As a matter of fact we reached for our subscription book, supposing, of course, that he wanted the best weekly in America for a year. The slayer then announced that he had come to slay us, not because we had ever done him harm, but because the influence of the press was driving out the good old times and customs.

We retreated towards the door of our harness department.

He pursued us with a drawn knife.

We then felt it our duty to draw our gun and let six streaks of daylight through his body, and as he went down we stepped to the door and sent a boy for the coroner. It was a clear case of self defense, and the inquest was a mere formality. We lament the sad occurrence, but no one can blame us. We paid his burial expenses, and in another column will be found his obituary, written in our best vein and without regard to space. No other Arizona editor has ever done half as much.

NO HARM DONE.—The boys got after a stranger the other evening who was pointed out as a horse thief, and ran him all over town with the object of pulling him up to a limb. In some manner he gave them the slip, and in their zeal they got hold of Judge Downey and held him up to a limb for over a minute before the error was discovered. The judge is gargling around with a sore throat and stiff neck and threatens to bring about fifty damage suits.

Take a friend's advice, judge, and hush up. You got off powerful easy, considering your general character. While it was a mistake, the boys were not so far wrong after all. We wish such mistakes would occur oftener.—Detroit Free Press.

The Robert Emmet Dramatic Club has secured the services of the Bell Bros., and incidental to the second and third act they will perform the great Roman Tablet act, feats of tumbling, forward and backward somersaults, surpassing all competitors in grace, style and execution. Music Hall, Monday evening, July 8th.

—During the closed season of Music Hall the place should be repaired and improved for next season. A Bucyrus View of It.

[Bucyrus Forum.]

The Kerr will was set aside by Judge Norris last Tuesday at Upper Sandusky. The bulk of the will was destroyed by the compromise with Laton and Ewart, by the terms of which the thirty year trust and a portion of the property were relinquished. By the terms of the will the property would have gone to the grandchildren at the expiration of thirty years, but it will now go to the children, of whom there are seven. The property remaining for distribution is 1000 acres and $150,000 in money. There was no contest against setting the will aside.

PETIT JURY EMPANELED TODAY

Mrs. Ballenger Begins Her Damage Suit Against John Markey for $10,000, for Slander.

The damage suit of Mrs. James Ballenger against John Markey for slander, for $10,000, was filed in Common Pleas court today. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant called her "an Irish bitch" and thereby injured her character and wounded her feelings to the extent of a round ten thousand. H. F. VanFleet is her attorney and feels confident of a very satisfactory verdict.

Prohibition Picnic.

Owing to our inability to get the news of this picnic yesterday, we publish this account today.

There was a goodly number present, among whom we noticed seven ministers—Revs. Wonder, Wallace, Thomas, Cockin and Stull, of Marion, Crabtree, of Ladue and Partridge, of Scott Town, showing forth the moral side of the occasion. The music by the Prohibition glee club of Marion and the LaRue quartet kept the people in fine humor, while the speeches were full of patriotism, purity and the equal rights of all mankind, both as to civil and religious liberty. All of the speakers were in favor of the suffrage of women, as carrying out the spirit of the Declaration of Independence. Among the speakers from abroad were Hon. R. S. Thompson and Elder A. Crabtree. M. B. Chase and Grant Munsel occupied the forenoon with orations, and Messrs. Crabtree, Thompson and Partridge spoke after dinner. There were two selections nicely rendered, one by Miss Clara Yale and the other by the baby of one of the Temperance Sunday school. All in all, everybody went away satisfied both in body and mind.
